

Our approach

At Hugh James we're proud to say that we do things differently. We may be a top 100 UK law firm, but we've kept a personal approach that's based on finding the right solutions for our clients.

We provide expert legal advice to a very broad range of organisations and people, offering specialist transactional, advisory and litigation services.

Aerospace and defence is a complex sector that requires legal advice from lawyers with experience across a range of disciplines.

Our lawyers have experience working for and advising the Ministry of Defence including former service personnel. This has given us invaluable insight into the sector which means we are able to offer expert, high quality commercial advice to businesses operating in aerospace and defence.

Our services include:

- Banking and finance
- Commercial
- Commercial property
- Construction and projects
- Corporate M&A
- Dispute resolution
- Employment
- Financial services for businesses
- Health and safety
- Insolvency
- Insurance and corporate risk
- Regulatory and corporate crime
